ag campus

An informal term for the buildings just west of the river that house the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences; the School of Environment and Natural Resources; and the College of Veterinary Medicine.

ARC

Home to both the men's baseball and women's softball teams, the stadium seating capacity is 4,450, although attendance has topped 5,000 on more than one occasion.

Block O

buckeye

A nickname for an Ohioan. The buckeye tree is native to the state of Ohio. The Indians called the buckeye "hetuck," meaning the eye of the buck, because of its resemblance to the eye of the buck deer. Read the entire history at osu.edu/news/history.php.

BuckeyeBar

The OIT BuckeyeBar offers walk-in technology assistance. Ask for advice when buying a PDA, find out how to get an Internet connection, or learn how to take advantage of Ohio State IT resources. Stop by the BuckeyeBar if your laptop can't connect to the Internet, has a virus problem, or just seems a bit sluggish. For more information, visit 8help.osu.edu/3461.html.

Buckeye Link

This is a one-stop destination for essential Ohio State resources and services. Students can visit Buckeye Link at buckeyelink.osu.edu to take care of academic business without waiting in line or leaving their computers.

Buckeye Mail

Students can check their Ohio State e-mail on the Web from any computer, anywhere in the world at buckeyemail.osu.edu.

BuckID

The university's multifunctional identification card. The BuckID allows students to purchase goods and services all around campus. buckid.osu.edu

Burrito Noches Café

Located on the lower level of North Commons, Burrito Noches Café offers custom-made giant burritos and nachos for late-night study breaks. Open evenings until 2 a.m. BuckID and cash accepted. diningservices.osu.edu/dining

CABS (Campus Area Bus Service)

No pass is needed to ride a CABS bus, which provides 24-hour service, seven days a week, to meet students' transportation needs across the Ohio State campus. With eight different bus routes, it is sure to get students where they want to be on campus. Check out the web site at tp.osu.edu/CABS for routes and schedules.

call number

The registration identification number for a specific course and the time that it is offered. Call numbers are found in the Master Schedule of Classes, online at www.ureg.ohio-state.edu/courses.

Carmen

CED (Continuing Education)

Continuing Education is the undergraduate enrollment unit for adult and nontraditional students not pursuing a degree. Contact CED at 152 Mount Hall on West Campus by phone, (614) 292-8860, or by e-mail, AskCED@gate.ce.ohio-state.edu. ced.osu.edu

change ticket

A university form used to change a student's schedule, usually to drop or add a course. A student's college office will fill out and process the form for the student. Most changes to a student's schedule can be accomplished online at buckeyelink.osu.edu, so students may not need to use a change ticket.

COTA (Central Ohio Transit Authority)

Students are charged $9 per quarter ($13.50 for professional students) for unlimited rides. Just show a valid BuckID to the bus driver when boarding. Visit cota.com for routes and information or call 224-COTA.

course enrollment permission form

Some courses require that students obtain the permission of the instructor to enter the course. This can be done by obtaining a course enrollment permission form. The form must be processed at the student's college office. The web registration system will not allow students to request courses that require permission until permission is received.

course packet

free time

"Free time" is a way to block off times on a class schedule when a student cannot come to campus or is unavailable. Free time is scheduled like a class and it shows up like a class on a schedule, but a student does not need to pay for, attend, or earn a grade for it. The feature may not be effective when a student is wait-listing a course because the registration system will not schedule a course during free time.

This rule allows an undergraduate student who has been absent from the university for five or more consecutive years to petition for a recalculation of his/her point-hour ratio. All grades of C- or better, PA, S, or EM and K credit are counted for credit hours only. All courses taken for credit remain on the record, but, in effect, the student starts with a clean slate as far as his/her point-hour ratio is concerned. The Graduate School and professional programs sometimes have other rules. The petition for a fresh start is approved by a student's college office.

GEC (General Education Curriculum)

The academic core of a student's curriculum, mostly completed in the freshman and sophomore years. The GEC helps students develop the foundation essential to succeeding in their major programs, including writing and critical thinking skills; engages them in topical contemporary issues; and gives them a broad understanding of diversity, the natural and social sciences, aesthetics, and, for some programs, basic foreign language aptitude.

GPA

A “hold” on a student’s record usually means that the student owes money to some unit at the university. If the hold is in place at the time the student uses the web registration system, he/she will be told who has placed the hold and warned that the obligation must be cleared by a given date or the student will not be scheduled for the courses requested. A hold on a student’s record will also prevent him/her from receiving grades at the end of the quarter, a transcript, or certification to receive a degree. It is important that students take care of holds as soon as possible.

Honors Program

The Honors Program offers greater academic challenges in limited enrollment sections and special courses. These courses are designated “H” and must be entered by permission. Students interested in the Honors program should call their academic advisors or the University Honors Program at (614) 292-3135. honors.osu.edu
