New Year’s Resolutions for a Healthy, Successful Second Semester

January 20, 2015 at 4:15pm by Alicia Nelson

It’s that time of year again! The start of a new semester, a fresh slate, and a Twitter feed full of #NewYearNewMe posts. Everyone wants to make positive changes for the new year, but sometimes following through can be a little tricky, especially for busy, broke college students. I’m here to offer you five easy resolutions that can make your academic, professional, and personal life that much better in 2015!

Dedicate time to go the RPAC a few times a week (and not just for the food at Courtside Cafe).

As Ohio State students, we are blessed to have such a beautiful facility at our disposal. Take advantage of the many resources it houses such as group fitness classes, personal training, and wellness coaching! When you’re done, you can treat yourself to the sauna, the hot tub, or even a massage!

QUESTIONS for CONSIDERATION

What are you doing to meet the needs of first-year students?

How do you know if it is working? What is not working?

What should you change about how you approach your work?

What barriers or excuses are preventing you from improving or reinventing your first-year student strategy?

What thoughts and feelings do you hope your work will evoke in first-year students?
